Keeping Powder Dry Is One Essential of Existence

Only yesterday the American people had a firm belief that the surest way to keep the peace was the one prescribed by the frontiersman: Be alert—and keep your powder dry.

Teddy Roosevelt put it this way: Tread softly but carry a big stick. Whatever the phrasing, pioneer Americans believed the only effective way to protect a rich and desirable land was the ultimate use of force.

But our generation has come up with a split decision. Today millions of Americans believe—or at least say they believe—the national safety can be guaranteed by conversation that is not backed up by adequate arms.

"Maybe we can talk the other guy out of the notion of war," seems to be our way of thinking. The hard facts of the world of 1971 would seem to smash this delusion forever.

The United Nations was supposed to be a sanctuary where all nations might talk out their problems and avoid warfare. But through the years the United Nations has turned out to be a bitter disappointment—a place where little countries do a lot of talking while the countries with population and arms go the way they please, just as they did before the United Nations idea was dreamed up.

Currently we have potential wars on three fronts: Israeli vs. the Arabs in the Middle East; India versus Pakistan—and strong hints of a future fight between Russia and China.

If the United States should suddenly find itself involved in any of these difficulties which would you put your money on—debate, or a well-stocked arsenal?

Napoleon Bonaparte said irreverently "God is on the side of the heaviest artillery."

Irreverent as it is, it should be a reminder to Americans they would be fools to abandon the policy of their forefathers and trust the weaponless nonsense that the United Nations seems to stand for.

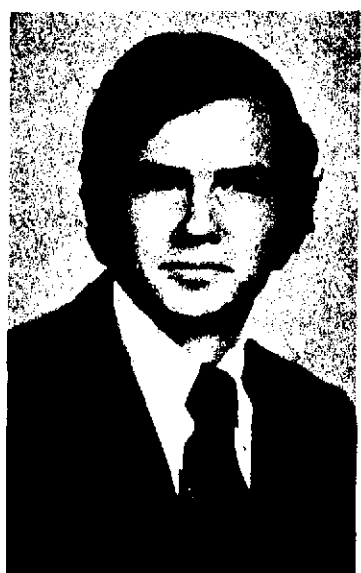

International relations bear a resemblance to good conduct in auto traffic, where the rule is: "Be a good driver—but watch the other guy."

Hope Native Admitted to Oxford University

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — Rimmel Nunn, who graduated from the University of Arkansas last spring with high honors in philosophy, has been admitted to Oxford University in England

Nunn will study in the Honors School of Psychology, Philosophy and Physiology of Corpus Christi College, one of the oldest and most prestigious of Oxford's colleges. It is also one of the smallest of the colleges, with enrollment limited to about 250, Nunn said.

Nunn, who currently is living in Farmington, near Fayetteville, grew up in Hope. His father was the late C. V. Nunn, Jr. of Hope. His stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Michael E. Dennis, now live in Farmington, New Mexico. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Nunn, Sr. and Mrs. W. C. Tolleson, Sr., all of Hope.

Nunn said that he hoped to work ultimately toward a doctorate from Oxford. His special interest, he said, is philosophy of mind. Dr. P. S. Bashor, professor of philosophy at the U of A, said that an influence in Nunn's admission to Oxford was doubtless a senior honors paper which he did on the famous British-American philosopher, Alfred North Whitehead. This paper was entitled "An Analysis of Whitehead's Concept of Organisms and Theory of God."

Nunn has applied for a Marshall Scholarship, a British grant which is given to Americans studying there, in connection with Britain's repayment of its war debt to the United States. Nunn is married to the former Jeri Land, daughter of Lt. Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Carey Land of Rogers. Mrs. Nunn, who received her bachelor's degree in anthropology from the U of A last spring, has applied for admission to one of the women's colleges at Oxford University. However, she will not be notified until early in the year. She has been admitted.

Charges Gas Firm Ignores Human Needs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Arkansas Public Service Commission testified Tuesday that a gas curtailment plan submitted by the Louisiana-Nevada Transit Co. failed to provide for the human needs of the DeQueen and Mena areas.

Pat Moran, the PSC chairman, made the statement in testimony before the Federal Power Commission in opposition to Louisiana-Nevada's proposed curtailment plan.

Moran pointed out that while low gas pressure forced elderly Horatio residents to bundle up and go to bed at midday last week in order to keep warm, the gas company apparently was

NATO Allies Plan to Hike Spending

BRUSSELS (AP) — America's European allies are shaping up a package of modest increases in their defense spending next year, hoping this will ease pressure from U.S. com-

U.S. troops in Europe.

The complete package is expected to emerge at the end of this week's semiannual meeting of the defense and foreign ministers of the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The first American reaction was due today from Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird at the meeting of NATO's Defense Planning Committee.

Ten of the European allies who form the "Eurogroup" announced on Tuesday that they are increasing defense expenditure in 1972 by "well over" a billion dollars.

More Rain, Low Temperatures for Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rain is expected to move into western Arkansas tonight and spread eastward across the state Thursday.

Another winter storm developing in the southern Rockies this morning is expected to produce the precipitation as it moves east.

A return to winter temperatures is forecast for the state by Friday or Saturday.

The sun broke through the cloud cover for a few brief periods Tuesday, but dense fog and low clouds ruled in again about midnight. Visibility was near zero in some sections of the northwest portion of the state this morning because of the heavy fog.

Southerly winds are expected to produce slightly warmer temperatures over the state today, with highs ranging in the 50s to near 60 in the south. High Thursday should be in the 40s north to mid 50s south.

Lows tonight should be in the mid 30s northwest to near 50 south.

Overnight lows include Fayetteville 33, Harrison 39, Jonesboro 45, Pine Bluff 35, Texarkana 41, El Dorado 33, Memphis 46 and Little Rock 42.

Rainfall reports for the 24-hour period ended at 6 a.m. include a trace at Jonesboro, Pine Bluff, El Dorado and Little Rock.

Area Gets Funds for Development

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Economic Development Administration approved a $45,310 grant Tuesday for the White River Planning and Development Council Inc. of Batesville to further the group's efforts to bring industry into the area.

The area includes Cleburne, Fulton, Independence, Izard, Jackson, Sharp, Stone, Van Buren, White and Woodruff counties.

TOUGH DECISIONS face Judge George H. Boldt as Phase II of the administration's post-freeze economic program gets under way. Boldt is chairman of the President's Pay Board, which rules on wage increases and has set an annual rate of 3.5 per cent as the national standard.

Indian Forces Nearing East Pakistan Capital, UN Calls for Ceasefire

UN Unlikely to Get Answer to Ceasefire

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly called Tuesday night for a speedy end to the fighting between India and Pakistan and a political settlement in East Pakistan. It seemed unlikely to get either.

The assembly adopted a resolution calling on both countries for an immediate cease-fire and withdrawal of their armed forces behind their own borders. The resolution also said "an early political solution would be necessary" to get the East Pakistani refugees back home.

The resolution was sponsored by 33 of the United Nations' 131 members and got an overwhelming vote of 104-11, with 10 nations abstaining, one not participating and five absent.

Indian and Pakistani representatives said their countries would not abide by the resolution.

The assembly adopted the cease-fire resolution after the Soviet Union, supporting India, vetoed two similar resolutions in the Security Council, and the council rejected a Soviet resolution calling for a political settlement in East Pakistan.

The assembly resolution was made to safeguard the lives and well-being of the civilian population in the area of the conflict. This was requested by Secretary-General U Thant.

Another paragraph was added calling upon the Security Council "to take appropriate action in the light of the present resolution." But with the Soviet Union backing India and the Chinese Communists supporting Pakistan, the council is deadlocked and nobody expects it to meet on the issue soon.

The votes against the assembly resolution were cast by the Soviet Union and eight of its Communist allies—Byelorussia, the Ukraine, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Mongolia and Cuba—plus India and Bhutan.

The abstainers were Britain, France, Denmark, Afghanistan, Singapore, Nepal, Oman, Malawi, Senegal and Chile.

The spokesman in Calcutta said Indian troops also had isolated Pakistani troops at Comilla, 50 miles southeast of Dacca.

Newsman were still barred from the battlefronts, and there was no way to confirm or disprove the official reports.

A government spokesman in New Delhi described Pakistani resistance throughout East Pakistan as "moderate to stiff, but when we lean on them, they just seem to give up."

The advancing Indians have not met any major resistance in the southeastern section of the province around Comilla, he said, but heavy fighting is going on to clear the Pakistani army cantonment at Comilla.

In the southeastern delta region, he added, the Indians have reached the port of Chandpur, on the water route to Dacca.

The spokesman said Indian Navy planes were putting heavy pressure on the ports of Chittagong and Cox's Bazar, and were reported destroying three gunboats at Chalna in the delta.

Child Care Bill Sent to Nixon, Veto Considered

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon faced a choice today that he had tried to avoid: whether to sign or veto a bill that would establish a $2-billion child-development program.

The House passed the bill, 210 to 186, Tuesday and sent it to the White House despite an intensive lobbying effort by the administration to defeat it.

Conservative Republicans are adamantly opposed to the bill, which would provide comprehensive day-care services to children of working mothers, and have publicly demanded Nixon veto it.

Women's organizations, labor, civil-rights and church groups are equally vocal in praising the bill.

Adding to Nixon's difficulties is the fact the bill also includes a two-year extension of the Economic Opportunity Act, which authorizes a wide variety of federal programs for the poor. It would be killed by a veto, too.

House Republican Leader

Gerald R. Ford, hoping to build a solid party front against the bill so it would never reach Nixon's desk, told a Republican caucus just before Tuesday's vote that a veto was certain if the House passed it. White House aides carried the same message.

Nevertheless, 31 Republicans joined 179 Democrats in passing the bill, a compromise between separate Senate and House versions. Voting against it were 134 Republicans and 52 Democrats.

When the Senate passed the bill, 63 to 17, last week, 24 Republicans including GOP National Chairman Robert Dole, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott and GOP Whip Robert P. Griffin all supported it.

The House vote was close enough to assure that a veto would be upheld since it would require a two-thirds majority to override. But Nixon's political dilemma is such that many supporters of the bill think he will sign it.

"How can he veto a bill that means so much to the poor, to the children, and to the working mothers of this country?" asked Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., floor manager of the bill.

Furthermore, Nixon went on record in 1969 as favoring "a national commitment to providing all American children an opportunity for helpful and stimulating development during the first five years of life."

The bill authorizes $100 million this year to plan the program, which is based on the popular Head Start program for preschool children. Two billion dollars would be authorized for the first year of the program starting in July.

Unlike Head Start, which is limited to children living in poverty, the new program would be open to all families. However, only those with annual incomes under $4,320 could participate without paying a fee.

Fatal Shooting an Accident

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Pros. Atty. Joe Holmes says the fatal shooting of Mrs. Joe Ann Brown, 42, of Pine Bluff apparently was an accident.

Holmes made the statement Tuesday night after investigating the death of Mrs. Brown.

Holmes said Mrs. Brown and her husband, Bobby, apparently were arguing and that Brown said he was going to get his gun and kill himself. Holmes said Douglas Brown, 16, the couple's son, struggled with his father in an attempt to get the gun and that the weapon discharged, striking Mrs. Brown in the chest.

Would Limit War Power of President

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has set the stage for another far-ranging foreign-policy debate with a bill to limit the president's authority to commit U.S. forces to war without congressional approval.

The bill, approved by a 13-0 vote Tuesday, limits such authority to 30 days and to cases of an enemy attack on the United States or its armed forces, "to forestall the direct and imminent threat of such an attack" and to protect evacuating U.S. citizens who are under attack.

The measure is opposed by the Nixon administration. One senior committee member says it could produce a debate to rival that in the mid-1950s when the Senate barely defeated an effort to curb treaty powers through the Bricker amendment.

"I am pessimistic about its becoming law," Sen. George D. Alken, R-Vt., told reporters. The debate will come next year.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., the committee chairman, said he was disturbed by language about forestalling "the direct and imminent threat of an attack," contending this could give a president new power to launch a first strike against a potential enemy.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a principal sponsor of the bill, defended the provision, telling reporters: "You don't have to wait until the bombs fall and there are casualties on the ground to act."

The language was not in Javits' original bill but is similar to measures sponsored by Sens. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., and Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo. The three and Sen. William B. Spong Jr., D-Va., joined in the compromise version, and some sources said the language objected to by Fulbright was strongly urged by Stennis.

The ASC community committee chairman, vice-chairman, and third regular member automatically become delegates to the county convention, where farmers are elected to fill vacancies on the County Committee. Alternate community committeemen become alternate delegates to the convention.

The County convention will be held at 10:00 A.M., December 10, 1971 in the Conference Room in the Federal Building in Hope. After the county committeemen are elected, the delegates determine which of the regular committeemen will serve as committee chairman and vice-chairman for the coming year. ASC county and community farmer-committeemen are in charge of local administration, of such national farm programs as REAP, Production Adjustment, and Price Support programs.

Last year, approximately 600 farmers—about 40 percent of all the farmers in the county—took part in one or more of the programs administered by ASC committeemen.

continuing to supply fuel to two nearby plants.

Moran said the proposed curtailment plan filed with the FPC appeared to be one in which the company seeks to "step out of the role of a public utility and return to serving their lucrative industrial customers first, and then if there is any gas left over, it can go to the people in the towns of Western Arkansas."

Moran said the curtailment plan should be rejected because it "fails to adequately provide for the human needs of the people of the DeQueen and Mena areas." He asked the FPC to tell Louisiana - Nevada Transit that its primary obligation was to serve human needs of its area "even if this does mean foregoing the manufacture of bricks and cement for a short period of time."

The company provides gas for the system operated by the city of DeQueen, which, in turn, provides for gas customers of Mena, Horatio and Locksburg.

Five Persons Found Shot to Death

WESTFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Five persons, three of them children, were found shot to death Tuesday night in their spacious home in this suburban community, police said.

Police said an alarm had been issued for John E. List, 46, identified as an executive for a New York City firm. They said List was wanted for questioning in the case.

Chief John F. Moran of the Westfield police said the victims, identified as List's wife, children and mother, had been dead about a month. He said the bodies were discovered by curious neighbors who entered the List home because no member of the family had been seen for some time.

Moran said a handgun had been found in the house but that it was not known whether it was the murder weapon.

Police identified the victims as Mrs. Helen List, 46; and her children Patricia, 16, John F., 15 and Frederick, 13. List's mother, Mrs. Alma List, a woman in her 80s, also was among the victims.

Jury Probing Death in Police Custody

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Two teen-age companions of a black youth who died while in police custody are major witnesses today before a special session of the Shelby County grand jury.

George Estes Barnes, 15, and Calvin McKissick, 14, were with Elton Hayes, 17, the night he died in October.

Dist. Atty. Phil Canale, who ruled Hayes' death was a homicide, is seeking indictments at a secret session of the grand jury which began Monday.

Memphis police said Hayes died as the result of injuries received when the pickup truck in which the youths were riding crashed during a police chase.

But Barnes and McKissick alleged they were beaten by arresting officers and Canale said an autopsy showed Hayes died from two blows to the head.

Injunction Right for U.S. Agencies Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 5 to 2 today that federal agencies have the right to ask a federal court to halt state court proceedings.

Federal law ordinarily prohibits federal courts from enjoining state court proceedings but the Supreme Court ruled in 1967 that the statute did not apply when the government, acting through the attorney general, was requesting the injunction.

Today's ruling expanded that decision to allow agencies also to request injunctions against state court actions.

The case stems from a labor dispute in Grand Island, Neb., involving efforts of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and butcher workers, AFL-CIO, to organize meat department employees in Jack and Jill Food Stores.

A National Labor Relations Board trial examiner sustained union complaints of unfair labor practices against the company but a state court granted the company an injunction strictly limiting picketing.

The NLRB sought a federal court ban against the state injunction but was turned down by a U.S. District Court and the U.S. Circuit Court in St. Louis.

Debate on Rehnquist Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate debate on the nomination of William H. Rehnquist to the Supreme Court continued today in the wake of Republican charges that Democrats were attempting a filibuster.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania accused Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., of conducting "a lonely filibuster." Bayh, a leader of the opposition to Rehnquist, called Scott's charge "a lot of baloney."

Scott says he knows of 73 solid votes to confirm the nomination of the 47-year-old assistant attorney general, a former Phoenix lawyer.

Asked how many votes he counts against the nomination, Bayh replied, "Not nearly enough."

Bayh protested Tuesday that the cry of filibuster was raised before even one full day of debate.

"We want to have a chance to present the record of Mr. Rehnquist," he said.

Scott indicated that a petition to invoke the Senate's antifilibuster rule may be filed later this week unless an agreement can be reached fixing a time for a vote.

Bayh said, "By the end of this week we should pretty well have documented the record," although he did not say exactly when he would be ready to vote.

Pulaski County Gets New Jail

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pulaski County voters Tuesday approved construction of a $4 million jail to replace the old jail and the Pulaski County Penal Farm.

The vote was 4,008 to 49.

No tax increase or bond issue is involved. The county will pay $800,000 of the cost and the federal government will pay the remaining $3.2 million.

Can't Bargain for Retired Employees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 6 to 1 today that unions cannot force management to bargain on benefits for retired employees.

The National Labor Relations Board had ruled in 1969 that unions could insist, as a matter of law, that management negotiate benefits for retired workers.

The case directly affects only 190 retired employees in Ohio but labor lawyers said earlier a Supreme Court ruling overturning the NLRB decision could affect millions of workmen and perhaps lead to disappearance of countless other subjects from labor-management bargaining tables.

The high court's ruling affirmed a decision last June 10 by the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati. The only dissenting vote was cast by Justice William O. Douglas. No reason was given for his dissent.

The case dates back to 1965 when federal Medicare was enacted and Local 1 of the Allied Chemical Workers of America, AFL-CIO, asked the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. to renegotiate medical benefits for its 190 retired employees.

Pittsburgh Plate at that time was under a 1964 agreement and was contributing $2 a month to the medical insurance premium of the retired workers.

Rather than bargain with the union, the company offered to pick up $3 monthly Medicare supplemental subscription costs for retired workers who would drop out of the company medical insurance plans. Fifteen accepted the offer.

The union complained the

HOPE (ARK.) STAR, Printed by Offset Describes Pearl Harbor

DALE MCKINNEY

DOUG HAYNIE

In keeping with an event that was a surprise when it occurred on December 7, thirty years ago, the Kiwanis Program on Tuesday, December 7th had been announced as a surprise program.

Kiwanian Doug Haynie introduced Dale McKinney of Hope who was a part of the U.S. Navy in the sneak attack by the Japanese Air Force on Pearl Harbor.

Mr. McKinney started his talk by asking the Kiwanians if they remembered what they were doing and with whom on December 7th, 1941 as the attack was announced to the world on the air waves.

Using as his subject "I Shall Never Forget That Day" Mr. McKinney recounted some of his personal experiences and some of the things that happened on "That Day". For a time after the attack in which 2,318 Americans were killed Mr. McKinney was listed as missing in action.

When the attack was over only a few small craft were left afloat in the harbor, among them the one on which Mr. McKinney served. After burying the dead and ministering to the wounded a Vesper Service was held on board and in the words of Mr. McKinney, he was drawn closer to the Lord than he had ever been before.

In the months following Mr. McKinney was twice wounded in different actions. After the second injury he was returned to the States. "When my ship docked in San Francisco," said Mr. McKinney, "I actually kissed the soil upon which I stood. It tasted real good."

In concluding Mr. McKinney said, "I am proud of America. I love her. With her faults, she is the greatest country in the world. On this December 7th, 1971 I urge you to remember those who gave their lives and to pray earnestly for our Country. May we each strive to be a better witness for our God and our Country."

Dean Murphy gave a brief report of the Kiwanis Mo-Ark District mid winter Conference held recently in Springfield, Missouri.

Key Clubbers Tommy Frazier and Rodney Steele were guest of the Club Tuesday.

Slack Suits Survive, Hot Pants May Not

NEW YORK (AP) — Hot pants may be dead and knickers passe but the slicked-up slacks suit has survived.

It is becoming more important, especially in such lush fabrics as cashmere, designer Halston said after his spring showing Tuesday.

"All the chic ladies wear slacks," he said, and he's tried hard to please his long list of chic clients.

For awhile many designers got bored with the original slacks suit. When it reached everyone from stewardesses to nurses, they figured it was time for something new. They've shown pants in every possible length and just about every material.

Halston, known for his simple, elegant styles, sticks to one length in slacks—long. He gives them high waists or flared cuffs and concentrates on some dramatic tops.

The loose top to his Chinese slacks suit is fastened only at its mandarin collar. Halston shows a lot of skin with halters or deep V-necks, sometimes covered with loose jackets. Or he reveals the outlines of the body through a layer of chiffon caftan.

"Anything to show the skin. They love the skin game," says Halston. He describes his look as "nudity without being nude."

For day, he likes cashmere sweater sets over pants or long, full, lush skirts. There are suede suits and easy belted jackets.

In general, his clothes are looser this year, from drooping dolman sleeves to full-backed coats.

"Something that doesn't grab the body, that's a trend," he says, and he brings back many chiffon ponchos and caftans to prove it.

However, he includes a series of black evening dresses that do hug the figure. They promise a wow-wow evening: front slit skirts, cut-out midriffs and all.

Women are beginning to want a more dressed up look in clothes, says Halston—from slacks suits to evening wear.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Former American presidents have them, so why not a museum for the man who has made presidents laugh?

Comedian Bob Hope said Tuesday he's planning just such a museum in Burbank and will stock it with mementoes of a lifetime in show business.

Included in the exhibit, Hope said, will be items he's picked up in 30 years of tours for the USO entertaining servicemen abroad. He leaves on his latest trip next Wednesday.

"Everywhere I go, the guys outdo themselves to give me some kind of gift that is unique," he remarked. "I've received elephant chairs, elephant tusks, everything you can think of. I've got vaults filled with beautiful things. Pretty soon I'll have a place to put all this stuff."

Hope once contemplated converting his huge North Hollywood mansion into a museum, but decided against it. Instead, he has purchased a large piece of property opposite NBC's Burbank studios. He has had a plan drawn up for the museum building.

"I probably won't get the place under way for a couple of years," he said. "I want to take some time to go around the country and visit various kinds of museums to see how they present things."

Hope's next overseas trip takes him to Hawaii, Okinawa, Thailand, South Vietnam, Tehran, a missile base near Venice, Terjeon Air Force base near Madrid, and Guantanamo base in Cuba. The troupe includes Jim OP? S, Vida Blue, Charlie Pride, Sunday's Child and the usual Hope package of Christmas beauties.

On the night before departure Hope will appear at a rare event: a dinner for Bob Hope.

After years of entertaining at banquets honoring other figures, Hope is the subject of a "Thanks for the Memories" salute to his USO tours.

"The Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce suggested giving me a dinner," Hope explained. "I said thanks, but I didn't need a dinner. Then they came up with the idea of selling tickets at $500 apiece to raise money for a new USO building in Hollywood."

"That was something I could go for. I guess I've been with the USO since it started, and I've seen what great work it

Howard Hughes Book Termed Authentic

NEW YORK (AP) — McGraw-Hill Book Co. says it has acquired world publishing rights to a 230,000-word autobiography of multimillionaire recluse Howard Hughes and is satisfied that the book is authentic.

McGraw-Hill's announcement Tuesday drew an immediate denial from a spokesman for Hughes Tool Co., which controls the Hughes interests, that such an autobiography existed.

"We just can't say anything further, just that it is not true," the Hughes Tool Co. spokesman said in Las Vegas.

"In my opinion, those who have participated in this thing either are perpetrators or victims of a gigantic hoax," said a spokesman for a public relations firm that handles accounts for the company in Los Angeles.

A McGraw-Hill spokesman responded: "We have taken all prudent and necessary steps to verify the authenticity of the book we are going to publish... we are satisfied it is legitimate."

MICHAEL CACOVANNIS, the Greek film director whose latest movie is "The Trojan Women," says he gets a lot of ideas from American TV commercials.

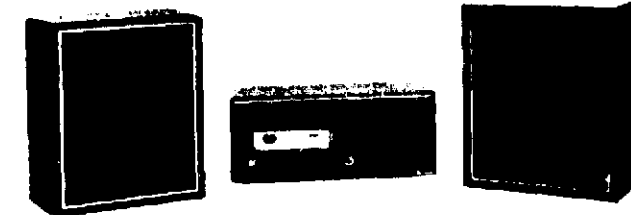

has done. Our show gets the publicity, but there are dozens of other USO shows touring all the time and doing a fine job."

The comedian reminisced a bit about his 30 years on the road for USO—or he might have been rehearsing his monologue:

"When I was a kid, I used to dream about traveling as far as Gary, Ind."

Del Rice Is New Manager of Angels

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
ANAHEIM (AP)—After searching five weeks, the California Angels came up with the same fellow as manager that they signed as their original player a dozen years ago.

A grandfather but not a greybeard, Del Rice must mold youngsters into a pennant contender but the 49-year-old baseball veteran makes no promises.

"Rice fits the role completely of the man we need," declared new general manager Harry Dalton in announcing the selection of a man who caught 17 years in the major leagues and since has served as a major league coach and minor league manager.

"We have a young ball club and I think in the future it may become even younger."

Rice played with the St. Louis Cardinals 10 years and appeared in the World Series with the Cards in 1946 and with the Milwaukee Braves in 1957.

Last season, he managed the Angels' affiliate Salt Lake City to the championship of the Pacific Coast League. A big, quiet man, he has assimilated knowledge and philosophy from the many under whom he served.

In 1960, he was signed by the American League's embryo Los Angeles Angels and was the catcher in 1961 when the club opened its first major league campaign.

Since then he has served as a coach and minor league manager.

His job now will be to rebuild a club which collapsed in 1971 when Alex Johnson was suspended and Tony Conigliaro decided it was time to quit the game.

"Right now we don't know who's going to play anyplace," Rice said at Tuesday's news conference.

Dalton apparently spelled out the No. 1 Rice attribute when he said, "Del's association with young ballplayers has been particularly impressive."

That appeared much more important than the fact Rice has spent 10 of the past 11 years in the Angels' organization. His only season out of it was in 1967 when he coached at Cleveland.

He succeeds Lefty Phillips who was fired along with general manager Dick Walsh after the club sank to fourth place last season. Early predictions listed it as a pennant contender.

Hope Cage Teams Ripped Apart by Stamps Fives

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Bad fouls and cold streaks were the downfall of the Hope teams last night as the Bobcats were shelled by Stamps, 65-33, and the Ladycats were outpointed in the last quarter for a 47-39, loss.

Both senior teams travel to Gurdon on Friday night for a pair of games, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Hope's girls got off to a bad start early as they fell behind as much as seven points, 11-4, with 2:08 left in the first quarter, and they had to play catch-up ball the rest of the half. A two point layup by Janet McCain with one minute left in the first period, left Hope trailing 14-9, moving into the second stanza.

Once more Stamps pulled away hitting three consecutive baskets at one time, while holding the Ladycats to Dee Singleton's six points. Then with two minutes left in the first half of action, McCain and Singleton went to work and with only one second left in the half, McCain drove in for a layup to knot the score at 25 all.

After the break, Singleton and Gigi Gladney gave Hope a quick 29-25 margin on two baskets, but then Stamps popped in seven straight points to pull away to a 32-29 margin with 3:10 left in the quarter. This time however it was the Yellowjackets' turn to hit a cold streak as only Hope scored in the remainder of the period to tie the score once again, 32-all, while moving into the final stage.

Quick scores by both teams pushed the score along but after Cory Coleman hit a layup with 5:19 to go for a Ladycat lead, 35-34, Stamps did the rest as they outscored Hope the remainder of the game, 13-4, to win.

Singleton led the Ladycats' attack with 17 points followed by McCain with 12, and Rodden hitting six. Also Coleman and Gladney had two each.

Later on, in what started out early as a good ballgame, progressed more and more into a nightmare for the Bobcats as they were completely dominated on the boards, and were clocked by the Yellowjackets.

Stamps took the tipoff and scored first on Johnny White's field goal, but the Bobcats came back for six straight points on two field goals by Buddy Ingram and one by Steve Harris, for a 6-2, margin with 6:13 left in the first period.

However, after David Briggs hit a jumper with 4:42 left for an 8-6, lead, the Cats soon fell back for good as Stamps started pouring it on. And while moving into the second period with an 11-10 margin, Stamps outhit Hope 17-2 in the next five minutes for a fairly comfortable 28-12, lead with 1:55 left in the first half.

Two outside shots by Ingram and charity throw by Briggs accounted for the next five points as Hope trailed at halftime, 30-17, and trying to figure a way for a second half comeback.

But that was not to be the case as the Bobcats witnessed long cold streaks in which amount of time only one or two points might be scored and another factor was a fine Yellowjacket defensive unit. So as the second half progressed, Hope fell farther and

Atlanta Players Released, Back in Practice

ATLANTA (AP)—Atlanta Falcons quarterback Bob Berry and defensive end Randy Marshall were back in practice Tuesday and apparently will not be suspended following their arrests in a police raid Monday night.

Both players suited up and worked out during the short practice session after being released on bond early Tuesday morning.

Marshall was released on $1,000 bond and Berry on a $500 bond, arranged for by Falcon Coach Norm Van Brocklin.

Jacksonville Upset

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer
Jacksonville losing a college basketball game because it did not have enough height? What a difference a year makes.

Last season the Dolphins had height to spare, with a starting lineup that included 7-foot-2 Artis Gilmore and 7-footer Pembroke Burrows.

But this year, with Gilmore and Burrows gone and 7-footer Dave Brent sidelined by a broken leg, the eighth-ranked Dolphins were hurt by a lack of height and were upset Tuesday night by Florida State 90-83 in the finals of the Civitan Tournament at Jacksonville.

Three other members of the Top Ten managed to win Tuesday night, but it wasn't easy.

No. 2 Marquette needed a desperation, last-second, 30-foot heave from reserve guard George Frazier to eke out a 74-73 victory at Memphis State.

Ninth-ranked Michigan led by as many as 12 points with five minutes to go, but needed a foul shot by sophomore Terry Tyler with six seconds left to clinch an 89-83 victory over local rival Eastern Michigan.

And 10th-ranked Penn edged Duke 50-49 at Durham, N.C., thanks to a 10-foot jumper by 6-8 senior Bobby Morse with 38 seconds left in overtime.

None of the other teams in the Top Ten were scheduled. Florida State's 6-11 Lawrence McCray and 6-10 Reggie Royals dominated the backboards down the stretch, as Jacksonville's biggest man was 6-8 Bob farther behind.

Outscored 19-6, in the third period, Hope just couldn't get an offensive mounted as they trailed, 49-23, moving into the final quarter. Only Ingram, Rowland, and Bud Martin could hit any points, and the reserves began filtering in to see some playing time.

Some late hitting by Danny Joyce kept the Cats from having the score doubled on them as they hit ten points in the final period while allowing Stamps 16.

Ingram led the Bobcats with 10 points, followed by Joyce with nine, Briggs hitting six, and Rowland netting three. Gilkey led Stamps with 17 points while Speer hit 16.

Golfer of Year Says Nicklaus Greatest

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP)—Lee Trevino is golf's Player of the Year but his own personal vote, he admits, goes to Jack Nicklaus.

"That man is out of this world—he is almost inhuman," the garrulous, wisecracking Mexican-American from El Paso, Tex., said after being named Tuesday as pro golf's Player of the Year.

"I've heard all these tales about Walter Hagen, Bob Jones and Ben Hogan—I've even played with Ben Hogan—and I know they were great."

"I don't want to appear disrespectful. I am proud of these men for what they did to keep the game alive. But I don't think any golfer who ever lived is as good as Jack Nicklaus."

Trevino was the overwhelming choice of his fellow pros for the annual award presented by Golf Magazine. He flew into New York to be toasted and grilled by the press.

Both Nicklaus and Trevino closed out their 1971 golf campaign Monday in the Disney World at Orlando, Nicklaus

Mercy Bowl to Aid Grid Families

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Presidential counselor Robert H. Finch was largely responsible for an NCAA decision allowing Fullerton State College to schedule a "Mercy Bowl" football game to aid families of three assistant coaches killed in a plane crash, The Los Angeles Times says.

Times columnist John Hall said in today's edition that Finch phoned NCAA executive Walter Byers asking him to take a telephone poll of the association's 18-member committee whose approval was required for the game to be played.

The NCAA initially refused the request by Fullerton State President Donald Shields, but later reversed its decision and allowed the college to schedule the postseason game against Fresno State College this Saturday.

Hall quoted Finch as saying, "It's something that had to be. I'm glad to be a little part of it. I couldn't understand the NCAA's initial attitude." He also said he would attend the game.

Barry Suit Settled for $1 Million

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors' 1967 suit over the status of Rick Barry, who jumped to Oakland of the fledgling American Basketball Association, was settled for $1 million Tuesday.

The Warriors—now known as the Golden State Warriors and based in Oakland—filed a $4.5 million suit against the Oakland Oaks after Barry, an All-Pro forward and the National Basketball Association's leading scorer in the 1966-67 season, signed with the Oaks for 1967-68.

The suit accused the Oaks—who later changed owners and locations and now are called the Virginia Squires—of inducing Barry to violate his $30,000-a-year contract with the Warriors. His three-year pact with Oakland totaled $225,000 plus fringe benefits.

After Barry sat out the 1967-68 season under court order to play for no team other than the Warriors, he joined Oakland, moved to Washington, D.C. with the team, and currently is playing for the New York Nets of the ABA.

Canucks Defeat St. Louis Blues in NHL Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Dave Balon of the Vancouver Canucks has gained the reputation for being in the right place at the right time.

The veteran left wing proved it again Tuesday night, hammering in the winning goal as the Canucks defeated the St. Louis Blues 2-1 in the only game in the National Hockey League.

The 33-year-old Balon, the leading goal producer on the New York Rangers the past two seasons and surprisingly traded to Vancouver last month, broke a 1-1 tie at 4:35 of the second period, beating St. Louis goalie Jim McLeod with a short drive from the right side.

It was his eighth goal of the season. Last season, Balon scored 36 times and the previous season, he had 33 goals.

St. Louis' Frank St. Marseille opened the scoring with his seventh goal early in the first period. Fred Speck's first goal tied it midway through the opening period, setting up Balon's game-winner.

Plunkett, Brockington Lead Rookie Voting

MINNEAPOLIS — (NEA) — Jim Plunkett, the 1970 Heisman Trophy winner from Stanford and John Brockington, All-American from Ohio State, are in the lead for NFL Rookies of the Year honors after the first tally of ballots.

This is the first year that the fans have had the opportunity to cast their votes for outstanding rookies. And so far Plunkett, New England Patriots quarterback, and Brockington, running back with the Green Bay Packers, have received the most votes in their respective conferences in balloting that continues until Dec. 24.

Also among the leaders in the initial balloting are Archie Manning and Bivian Lee of the New Orleans Saints, Phil Wise and John Riggins of the New York Jets, Tom Blanchard and Rocky Thompson of the New York Giants and Jack Tatum and Phil Villapiano of the Oakland Raiders.

Fan participation in the selection for the NFL Rookies of the Year awards has been made possible by the Wheaties Sports Federation, headquartered here, in cooperation with Newspaper Enterprise Association (NEA) and the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Ballots from the fans will result in five nominees from each conference and a panel of judges, appointed by NEA and the Hall of Fame, will pick a winner for each conference from those nominated. The winners will receive a Dodge Charger automobile and the Bert Bell Trophy at the Pro Bowl Game in Los Angeles on Jan. 23. The other eight nominees will win cash prizes of $500 each.

Other rookies among the top 10 in the first tally are Scott Hunter of Green Bay, Vic Washington of San Francisco, Ron Jessie of Detroit, Isaiah Robertson of Los Angeles and Richard Harris of Philadelphia in the National Conference and Clarence Scott of Cleveland, Ken Anderson of Cincinnati, Don Nottingham of Baltimore, Lyle Alzado of Denver and Bill Parks of San Diego in the American Conference.

To vote, fans may use ballots from specially marked packages of Wheaties breakfast cereal or official ballots obtained by writing Wheaties-NFL Rookies of the Year, Dept. 480, 400 Second Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minn. 55440. Ballots must be postmarked no later than Dec. 24.

Floridians Win Over Denver in Close ABA Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warren Jabali has gone through two names, four teams and five cities since he started his pro basketball career four years ago, but the Floridians are happy he was with them Tuesday night.

Jabali scored his team's last nine points against Denver, including a pair of free throws with just four seconds left to break a 105-105 tie and give the Floridians a 107-105 American Basketball Association victory over the Rockets.

In other ABA games, Indiana topped New York 119-114, Pittsburgh whipped Carolina 122-102 and Dallas defeated Virginia 113-103.

Jabali changed his name from Warren Armstrong to Warren Jabali at the start of the season. He broke into the ABA with the Oakland Oaks, moved with them when the team became the Washington Caps, then was traded to the Kentucky Colonels and then the Indiana Pacers before coming to the Floridians in the off-season.

The 6-foot-2 Jabali, ABA rookie of the year in 1968-69, led his team with 19 points. He put the Floridians ahead 102-101 by sinking a technical foul called on Denver's Dave Robisch for failing to report to the official scorer when he entered the game.

Jabali had two three-point plays in the final quarter and a 48-point performance by Denver's Ralph Sampson.

Roger Brown scored 11 of his 22 points in the fourth quarter and reserve guard Marv Winkler added seven of his nine points in the final period as the Pacers topped the Nets. Indiana hit on six three-point goals including three by Brown.

Rams' Running Back, Offensive Player of Week

By RON ROACH

Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Willie Ellison said all he wanted was the opportunity to carry the football regularly. For four seasons he got to play mainly when others were hurt.

He wasn't always patient about his reserve running back role with the Los Angeles Rams. He substituted himself into a game last year without the coaches' approval.

But in the fifth season in the National Football League the 26-year-old Ellison has broken into the starting backfield, finally shaking the typical assessment of a rookie given by a Rams coach in 1968 — "When he gains experience, he'll be a real good one."

And the 6-foot-1, 200-pound running back from Texas Southern is The Associated Press offensive player of the week in the NFL. The choice was obvious after he set a single-game NFL rushing mark of 247 yards in a 45-28 victory Sunday over New Orleans.

Ellison, whose 28 carries included an 80-yard touchdown run, broke the mark of 243 yards set by Cookie Gilchrist of Buffalo against the New York Jets in 1963.

His season-long goal has been to gain 1,000 yards, and he needs only 71 to reach the plateau with two games remaining.

As a rookie in 1967 he carried the ball from scrimmage only 14 times. In 1968, he gained 616 yards, getting to play because Les Josephson injured his Achilles tendon.

But the past two seasons he has accounted for 437 yards as a second-string runner.

"I really think that during the time I was trying to move into the starting offensive backfield Coach George Allen already had his mind made up on who was going to start," he said.

But against the San Francisco 49ers last year, Ellison decided that he'd play.

"Larry Smith was getting kinda dizzy and they still hadn't substituted for him," Ellison said. "He told me he was dizzy. On the next series I went in for him. None of the coaches knew it because at the time each one had thought the other had sent me in."

All Ellison did was score three touchdowns as the Rams defeated the 49ers, 30-13.

"After five years," said Ellison with sarcasm, "I'm sure I have the experience."

But it wasn't until Tommy Prothro succeeded Allen as Rams head coach that Ellison felt he was given a fair shot.

"When he first came," Ellison said of Prothro, "he said he had heard a lot about me, a lot positive and a lot negative. But he said he was not going to be influenced and was giving me a chance to prove myself."

Ellison said he's looking forward to playing against the Alton-coached Redskins "but there won't be anything different in the way I play. It's another game and another opportunity."

Harding Downs Ark. College

BATESVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Lester Busby and Bill Chism scored 20 points each to pace Harding College to a 74-67 victory over Arkansas College here Tuesday night.

The triumph was Harding's first in AIC play against two conference losses. Arkansas College, which led 40-39 at the half, is 2-3 in the conference.

Chicago Bulls Claim Victory Over Cavaliers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

They love Bob Love in Chicago.

It was not love at first sight, but the slender 6-foot-8 forward has won the hearts of Chicago Bulls' fans over the past three National Basketball Association seasons.

Love wowed the Chicago partisans Tuesday night, pumping in 40 points and leading the Bulls to a 115-99 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Portland outlasted Detroit 131-130 in overtime, Boston whipped New York 105-97, Milwaukee overwhelmed Seattle 116-83, Buffalo trounced Cincinnati 115-91, and Atlanta edged Golden State 116-113.

Love, a benchwarmer in his early NBA days with Cincinnati and Milwaukee and in his first half season with Chicago, finally earned a starting job in the 1969-70 season and averaged 21 points a game. Last season, he was even better, raising his average to 25.2.

Against the Cavaliers, he was devastating, connecting on 16 field goals and eight of 10 free throws. Cleveland fell apart in the fourth period, missing its first 17 shots while dropping behind 106-88 after leading 86-81. John Johnson topped the Cavaliers with 25 points.

Portland's victory, accomplished despite a career high 44 points by Detroit's Jimmy Walker, enabled the Trail Blazers to end an 11-game road losing streak. Stan McKenzie scored six points for Portland in overtime, including two free throws with five seconds left.

Geoff Petrie netted 36 points for Portland and rookie Sidney Wicks added 30.

Kareem Jabbar's 29 points and Bob Dandridge's 28 paced Milwaukee's offense against Seattle in a game marred by a fight between the Bucks' John Block and the SuperSonics' Dick Snyder with 2:12 remaining. Ex-Buck Don Smith topped Seattle with 21 points. The victory was Milwaukee's 24th in 28 games.

Rookie Fred Hilton poured in 26 points for Buffalo, while another rookie seven-foot Elmore Smith scored 14 points and grabbed 19 rebounds.

But he added, "If I can do it (reach the 1,000-yard mark) against them, I will be more satisfied."

One-Fourth of Mankind

(The Middle Kingdom)

It is quite clear then that the old culture which we wish to sweep away cannot be isolated from the old politics and old economy of our nation.

Mao Tse-tung

Twenty-two years have passed since the "agrarian reformers" led by Mao Tse-tung began sweeping away the old culture of China, a nation with a history of nearly 4,000 years.

Yet the revolution that has overtaken China under the Communists is but a continuation of the revolution set in motion more than a century ago when Europeans began knocking vigorously at the door of "the sleeping giant."

It is a paradox of our time that the new China remains as remote and mysterious to many Westerners as the old China was to the Romans, who knew of the Chinese as "the Silk People."

Thus all the greater has been the shock of recent developments: A U.S. president, who as a senator gained fame as an architect of communism, announcing he would visit Peking; the overwhelming vote in the United Nations to oust the Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan and seat the mainland Chinese; the sudden emergence of Red China as an influential world power after two decades of self-imposed isolation.

But with the largest population in the world, estimated at more than 700 million, roughly one-fourth of mankind and with the third greatest land area, by sheer size alone China must inevitably play a leading role.

China is a half-million square miles larger than the 48 United States and occupies about the same latitudes on the opposite side of the globe. But because of the severe nature of most of the interior, the vast bulk of her population lives in an area half the size of the United States.

Seriously lacking in many of the natural resources required by an industrial nation, China's greatest resource, as in the past, is her energetic, inventive, long-suffering people. The Chinese had seen most forms of government and social experiment—feudalism, monarchy, socialism, totalitarianism—2,000 years before Charlemagne, Louis XIV, Marx, Hitler.

Today, however, at least to outward appearances, they have been molded into a cohesive, single-minded entity not known before in their long history. The ancient ways seem to have been utterly overthrown and China is determined to enter the modern world and regain her historical place as the "Middle Kingdom"—the center of the world.

Nevertheless, modern China rests on foundations 4,000 years deep in history, and whoever would understand the new China must first examine the old.

Burger Urges National Prison Reform

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — The National Conference on Corrections has been urged by Chief Justice Warren Burger to concentrate on problems of prison reform that can be solved rather than to seek a cure-all.

"Because of the terrifying magnitude of the problem," Burger told the gathering Tuesday night, "I hope the conference will find a way to identify just a few of the most urgent but solvable problems and address themselves to those at once."

"If we try to solve all the problems, we will solve none. We must be content with modest progress and small victories."

The chief justice called the decision of President Nixon and Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell to establish a National Corrections Academy to train prison personnel perhaps "one of the milestones in American correctional history."

Burger said the problems of prison reform which require prompt attention are:

—The creation of institutions to provide an environment in which hope can survive.

—Carefully selected and trained prison personnel motivated in their tasks and adequately compensated.

—Better classification to separate the incorrigibles.

—A balanced program of productive work with intensive basic and vocational education and recreation.

The chief justice said prison literacy figures were enough to make him wish that every sentence could provide for release when the prisoner had learned to read and write, perform simple arithmetic and develop basic skills salable on the outside.

"We should develop sentencing techniques to impose a sentence so that an inmate can literally learn his way out of prison as we now try to let him earn his way out with good behavior," he said.

Burger said public support is a must to help to solve the problems of prisons and prison administration.

"The law will define legal duties but I confess I have more faith in what a moral commitment of the American people can accomplish than I have in what can be done by the compulsion of judicial decrees," he said.

GRAYSON SPEARS

Grayson Spears, manager of the new carpet mill being constructed in Hope, spoke to the Hope Lions Monday at the Town and Country.

Mr. Spears said that due to the rainy weather, they plan to put up columns on piers, erect the steel framework and put on the roof before the concrete slab floor is poured.

Installing the massive machinery is a lengthy process. The speaker told of the oven that dries the newly dyed carpet. The oven comes in sections that have to be assembled inside the building. When completed, the oven is 247 feet long and takes about sixteen weeks to assemble.

The carpet mill will be similar to the two Mr. Spears constructed and operated in Lewisville, Arkansas and Marlin, Texas. He said, however, that the new mill would have no connection with Cherokee Mills in Lewisville.

After describing the operation, Mr. Spears presented color slides of the Lewisville and Texas mills so that the group would have a good idea of the size and operation of a carpet mill.

May of 1972 is the tentative date set for completion of the mill. Eighty to eighty-five people are needed to begin production at the mill, and this number could increase to 150 in two years.

The program was arranged by

Lion Calvin Smith. Terral Hutson of Little Rock was the guest of his brother, Lion Austin Hutson. Douglas Williams, a Sears management trainee, was the guest of Lion David Still.

There will be no noon meeting next Monday because the Lions will hold their Christmas Ladies Night Banquet at 7 p.m. at Perry's Restaurant.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

'Strep' Throat Needs Good Care

Dear Dr. Lamb—Would you tell me if scarlet fever is the same as a strep throat and if the rash that develops will scale and the scales can give it to another person? Today scarlet fever isn't so dangerous as it was 40 and 50 years ago.

Dear Reader—A "strep throat" means an infection of the throat with bacteria called streptococcus. There are several types of bacteria in this group. The toxin or poison formed by some types of these bacteria makes a person ill. One manifestation of the illness can be the rash of scarlet fever. Thus the only difference between some forms of strep infection and scarlet fever is the rash. The same streptococcus infection is just as contagious with or without the rash. Rheumatic fever followed by rheumatic heart disease and kidney disease can be a complication of "strep" infections.

You are right, scarlet fever isn't so dangerous now as it once was nor nearly so common. Forty years ago we didn't have sulfa drugs, penicillin or a host of other antibiotics that control or eliminate streptococcal infections.

All "strep" throats should be treated to prevent the likelihood of subsequent problems, including heart disease.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am a 10th grader and I am interested in the human heart and its many functions. One thing puzzles me. Will the human heart burn if the body is burned, such as in cremation? I have tried to look it up in various heart books and encyclopedias but no answer to my question.

Dear Reader—That is a pretty grizzly question. Yes, it burns. The heart is made up mostly of muscle. It is a different kind of muscle than in your arm, but they have many things in common. The same is true of a animal hearts.

The beef steak and roasts

Italy Next on Nixon Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has added Italy to the list of nations whose government chiefs he plans to meet before his visits to Peking and Moscow next year.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Tuesday Nixon had wanted to meet with Prime Minister Emilio Colombo of Italy this month, but the meeting was put off until after Thursday's presidential election in Italy.

Nixon met for nearly 90 minutes Tuesday with President Emilio Medici of Brazil to brief the South American leader on the coming trips to the Communist capitals and to discuss relations between the United States and Brazil, the hemisphere's two most populous countries.

Nixon met Monday with Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau of Canada and is scheduled to confer within the next month with the government heads of France, Britain, West Germany and Japan.

You eat are mostly muscle and beef heart is muscle. As you know, both can be cooked and eaten. Usually anything that can be cooked can be burned—any housewife will attest to that.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like to know if it would be possible to find a plastic surgeon who would be willing to perform a face lift without giving a blood transfusion afterwards, since there are blood substitutes less apt to cause infection.

Dear Reader—Of course. Talk it over with the surgeon in advance. Commonly, a plastic surgeon will use adrenalin injected into the skin area where the surgery will be performed for the purpose of controlling or preventing any appreciable bleeding. The best results are obtained if loss of blood can be prevented.

If the blood loss is minimized, there is no need for a blood transfusion.

Candidate Admits Notion Is Absurd

By VERNON A. GUIDRY Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John Ashbrook thinks the notion that he could win the presidency from Richard Nixon borders on the absurd. But he is considering an attempt anyway.

Influence, not ouster, would be the goal of a presidential primary challenge to Nixon, a course being urged on Ashbrook by a group of conservative leaders.

The six-term Ohio Republican plans to announce next week whether he will attempt to take votes from Nixon in order to get a better hearing for the conservative viewpoint at the White House.

"It's the only thing the President will listen to," Ashbrook said Tuesday as news of the conservative push broke.

In Ashbrook, the would-be candidate-makers have found a congressman who has gathered seniority while working quietly in the House, but who has earned a national reputation among conservatives. All at 43 years of age.

"Politically, my inclination is to do it," he said. "Personally, my inclination is not to do it."

Politically, Ashbrook brings staunch conservative credentials to the fray and a well-known opposition to some Nixon policies.

He came to Congress from the rural 17th District of Ohio, bringing with him a Harvard education, a law degree from Ohio State and the experience of two terms in the state legislature.

Ashbrook served as chairman of the American Conservative Union for five years, was a member of the steering committee of the Committee of One Million Against the Admission of Red China to the United Nations.

He is ranking Republican on the House Internal Security Committee and is No. 2 Republican on the House Education and Labor Committee.

Ashbrook still lives in his hometown of Johnstown about 20 miles from Columbus where one brother runs the bank and the other an insurance agency.

He is a Baptist who does not smoke and whose alcoholic intake amounts to an occasional beer. He has a reputation for a grueling schedule and keeps office hours in his district on Friday and Saturday.

If he runs, he will not stop with the New Hampshire primary.

"It will take more than New Hampshire to make the point," Ashbrook said, listing the Florida primary and possibly those in Illinois and California.

Success in New Hampshire, he said, would be 12 to 18 per cent of the vote. But whatever the outcome, "I don't think my next address will be 1600 Pennsylvania Ave."

Bombing at Stanford Under Probe

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — The FBI is investigating two bomb explosions which officials say destroyed some $100,000 worth of electronics equipment at the world's largest atom smasher. The smasher itself was not damaged, officials said.

The blasts Tuesday at the two-mile-long Stanford Linear Accelerator Center caused no radiation leak, fire or injuries, said Sidney Drell, the center's acting director.

The $114 million tunnel-like steel building on grassy foothills west of the Stanford University campus was closed a week ago for a routine, month-long maintenance check, Drell said. He said it will open again on schedule Jan. 3.

University information officer Bob Beyers said no classified or Defense Department work was conducted at the center, which Stanford operates for the Atomic Energy Commission.

WHY SHOP AT HOME?

SIX REASONS

1. You receive fast, personal service from your friends and neighbors when you shop at local stores.
2. Prices and goods are comparable to those from Little Rock to Dallas.
3. You can save a long, frustrating and dangerous drive during the holiday rush season by shopping at home.
4. All civic clubs, recreation clubs, athletic teams and other similar organizations ask local merchants for contributions year-round. They don't ask Texarkana or Little Rock merchants, who could care less. Your cooperation in "shopping at home" will demonstrate to our merchants that you care and are willing to support them as they have supported your organization.
5. Money spent in Hope and Hempstead County remains at home for the most part. It continues to work. And increased capital makes possible improvements in the physical appearances of stores, makes possible expansion of goods and services and creates more employment at home.
6. More business, larger inventories of goods, expansions and more employment contribute to a larger local tax digest, relieving the tax burden of homeowners and providing tax revenues for better schools, roads, streets and other public services.

Price Board Okays Steel Increase

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board is considering tightening its regulations to require advance approval for any wage agreement providing more than 5 per cent a year in pay raises, no matter how few employees are affected.

Presently there is no requirement that new pay agreements affecting fewer than 1,000 persons even be reported to the Pay Board. These small agreements, numbering roughly 10 million and affecting 83 per cent of working Americans, are now subject only to spot checks by agents of the Internal Revenue Service.

This arrangement was handed to the Pay Board by the Cost of Living Council before the end of the wage freeze.

A Pay Board source said that the board Tuesday received three different proposals from its staff. The toughest of the three would require that the Pay Board approve in advance any agreement exceeding the board's guideline that raises shouldn't be more than 5.5 per cent a year. Another staff suggestion would require that such above-guideline wage increases be reported to the board, the source said. The third would spell out detailed circumstances that would justify increases higher than 5.5 per cent, but require no report or advance approval.

Pay Board spokesman Herbert Wurth said the board was agreed "in principle" on the approach it wants to take, and would resume consideration today. A labor source said the public and management members of the tripartite board appeared to be leaning toward one of the tougher alternatives, requiring advance approval or at least notification of higher-than-guideline pay boosts.

Presently agreements affecting 5,000 or more workers require advance approval and those affecting from 1,000 to 5,000 must be filed with the board, subject to review.

In other actions Tuesday the Price Commission approved a 3.6 per cent across-the-board price increase for all steel-mill products of U.S. Steel Corp., which originally had sought an 8.6 per cent increase on only some of its products.

The 3.6 per cent increase, which is an average that will allow the firm to raise some prices by more or less than that figure, will prevail until next Aug. 1, when the next round of steelworker pay increases are due.

A Price Commission source said the panel had acted in the way it did because it feels it cannot realistically control the price of every product without risking the possibility of dropping some products off the market if prices are set too low.

The Pay Board scheduled for next Tuesday a review of the United Auto Workers three-year contract with North American Rockwell Corp., ratified last Sunday.

The pact, which includes pay increases plus fringe and cost-of-living benefits that reportedly bring the total to 30 per cent, covers only 11,000 workers at plants in three states. However, it is considered a pattern-setter for the entire aerospace industry.

The Price Commission announced approval of coal price increases for 20 firms, ranging from less than 3 per cent to nearly 5 per cent. The commission said last week it would not allow coal companies to pass along to consumers the full amount of a 15 per cent pay increase won by the United Mine Workers and approved by the Pay Board.

The Pay Board also Tuesday recommended to the Cost of Living Council that Puerto Rico be exempted from wage controls, along with Guam, the Virgin Islands and American Samoa, sources said.

Puerto Rico was covered by the wage-price freeze but the others were not.

The Cost of Living Council today said it would allow price increases that amount to a return to normal prices to be made without prenotification of the Price Commission. The action, the council said, is designed to clear up the problem faced by merchants who were carrying on special sales promotions when the freeze was decreed Aug. 15.

The council also said firms required to prenotify the commission need not do so in the case of "sharply shifting raw material costs."

Such increases without telling the commission, however, only are allowed when the product has customarily been subject to immediate and frequent fluctuations in the cost of a raw material. The increases may only reflect the increase in cost of the raw material, the council said.

Kent State Charges Dismissed

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — Prosecutor John Hayward says he plans to drop charges against 20 persons still facing trial in connection with disturbances which claimed four lives at Kent State University in May 1970.

He blamed a lack of evidence. Hayward's announcement Tuesday came shortly after Mary Helen Nicholas, the fifth of the 25 persons ordered to trial, was acquitted of a charge of interfering with a fireman during the burning of a campus ROTC building on May 2, 1970.

Two of those indicted had pleaded guilty in Portage County Common Pleas Court to charges of first-degree riot, a third was found guilty by a jury of interfering with firemen, and charges against another were dropped for lack of evidence.

Hayward said that 10 days ago the special prosecutors had received the transcript of evidence presented to the special state grand jury that indicted 25 persons in the Kent State disturbances in which four students were killed during a confrontation with National Guardsmen.

He said that after reviewing the transcript and considering the outcome of the trials so far, "it is the conclusion of the office of the attorney general of Ohio that the following cases be dismissed for lack of evidence."

Acquittal of Miss Nicholas, a 21-year-old Kent State sophomore, was ordered by Judge Edwin Jones for lack of evidence.

MONEY CLIPS
by Mort Reed

An air of determination literally pours from this reproduction of a George L. Osborn original depicting the U.S. Mint at Fifth and Mission Street in San Francisco, Calif., during its service period from 1874 to 1937. But its biographic outline by the artist can be compared only to that of the U.S. dollar itself.

The story of the home of the "S" mint mark began in the summer of 1874 after outgrowing the facilities of the original mint located on Commercial Street. And although its reputation for efficiency was widespread, the strength of its employees and the heroism of its employees were severely tested by the earthquake and fire of 1906.

The conflagration that devastated over 80 per cent of San Francisco was virtually stopped at the doors of the Mint. Windows and floor frames burst into flames and the roof was covered with as much as two feet of red hot cinders carried on the wind.

From within these walls have come such numismatic rarities as the 1894 Barber-head dime with a mintage of only 24 pieces and valued at $12,000 each, the 1878 Seated Liberty Half-dollar priced at $4,000, along with the 1883 Morgan-head dollar and the 1909 Lincoln cent, just to name a few.

Osborn is an artist of rare talent. His in-depth study of the structure supported by endless research creates an exciting effect that far surpasses that of a photographic print. Unlike the sketch at the head of this column, the originals are not marred by the name, date and address but neatly printed below in a classic type along with a brief description of the building's history.

According to an article in Coin World, Osborn has done two such studies—the 1874-1937 San Francisco Mint and the 1833-1909 U.S. Mint at New Orleans. Still a third ink-and-wash sketch in the series will be of the Carson City Mint.

Finds Hernan Cortes and Crew Tougher Than Modern Men

EDITOR'S NOTE — John Platero, an Associated Press correspondent in Mexico, recently took up his boss's idea and decided to retrace the route followed by Hernan Cortes when that Spaniard arrived for the conquest of Mexico. Platero, of Spanish ancestry himself, learned the Spaniards of four centuries ago may have been tougher than modern man. Or at least tougher than the modern Platero.

By JOHN PLATERO
Associated Press Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) — The idea seemed simple enough. Get a bunch of grub, a few pots and some other gear together and walk over the route Hernan Cortes followed when he set out from Veracruz for Mexico City on his epic trek of conquest.

But a lesson has been learned. A man born and raised on the streets of Brooklyn should have his head examined first.

Cortes started his preparations more than 400 years ago in Cuba, looking around for junk like ships, guns, food, sails, carpenters and other odds and ends.

But me, a son of the streets who suddenly decided to be a great adventurer, I prepared in a different way. I needed butane gas for my fancy cigarette lighter. I needed hiking boots, waterproof boots, street shoes, sneakers, sandals and bedroom slippers. Someone suggested I carry a three-foot machete. A guy can get hurt with a thing like that.

I had to worry about things Cortes never thought of. Like dress shirts, jackets, sweaters, raincoat, gloves and a nice tie in case someone invited me in for dinner during the 300-mile walk from Veracruz to Mexico City.

Then there was a gas stove with a tank that weighed 25 pounds that I had to buy and a five-cell flashlight in case the under water light I brought didn't work. I also packed four kinds of rope and line including a piece of hawser that Cortes could have used to tie up his whole fleet. I had about a quarter-mile hunk of this, difficult to pack in a small bag.

My 13-year-old son, John, who has lived in Montana, showed much more sense and had all his necessities in a small back pack that weighed only about 20 pounds.

When all my stuff was loaded in duffle bags, canvas sacks, cardboard boxes and sprawled loose on the sidewalk waiting for the taxi to take us to the train station, the over-all weight was almost enough to sink any of the three ships Cortes began with.

"Sure you don't want to take the portable television," quipped my son with a mischievous grin.

"No, so. I'm gonna rough it like Cortes," I replied ignoring his sarcasm.

Boarding the train to Veracruz I know now I must have resembled a one-man hippie safari tripping to never-never land. Porters, instead of offering to help, stared in amazement and whispered to each other.

"Who is the crazy gringo in knickers who looks like Cortes?" a railroad employee asked a station policeman.

After arriving at Veracruz, a fleet of taxis transported me to the bus depot. Half the passengers on the bus had to be put off because it took 21 first-class tickets to accommodate me and my gear.

I made it to Antigua, the starting point, and spent the night spread out in three rooms of a local hotel.

The next morning, a Sunday, I was able to locate a herd of mules that had the day off, and began the new conquest of Mexico full of vigor and excitement.

Three weary hours later, at a little pueblo down the road about five miles, I laid in the street completely exhausted squashing a large bag of marshmallows I had tied to my back pack.

The townspeople were most helpful after they quit laughing and had thrown special herbs into the air to fight off evil spirits. Explaining what I was attempting to do didn't help the situation any. They were certain the hot, boiling sun had fried my brains. The large glob of white gooey mush down had spread over my back pack.

A couple of the mules wandered off and I lost some of the equipment which gave me reason to cancel the trip on the spot.

The following day my son and I made it back to Mexico City, but my baggage had lost some of its earlier orderliness. As I walked up to my house with a loose pillow in one hand and dragging a shopping bag spilling knives, forks and spoons along the way, I heard my wife say from the open window, "I wonder who the crazy gringo in knickers is—the one who looks like Cortes?"

One of the most interesting modern gadgets is the responsive double. Invented by Dr. F. Field-Reid of Dania, Fla., and expanded by Alvin Roth of New York and others, it is a fine weapon for experts—although they even may go wrong with it.

The basic idea is that when an opening-suit bid is followed by an overcall or takeout double and a raise by partner there is no real opportunity for an immediate business double and therefore the double by fourth hand merely asks partner to bid.

North's double of two diamonds is a perfect example of this bid. He hoped his partner can bid a major suit, but is able to stand a club bid if South has a one-suit hand.

East's jump to three no-trump was a really fine bid. He would make it easily, but after the responsive double there was no way to shut South out. South bid four spades and had no trouble making it after everyone passed.

This time the responsive double wasn't necessary. North could have bid two spades, whereupon South would have raised him to game.

However, if North were declarer at four spades there is a good chance that he would have been set. East would be on lead and might play his singleton ace of clubs. After that it would be a simple matter to put West in by leading a low diamond, whereupon West would give his partner a club ruff.

Printing Bids Challenged

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The apparent low bid on four state printing contracts may be disqualified because the firm submitting the bid inadvertently failed to sign copies of general provisions that accompany each contract.

Several major printing firms are demanding that bids submitted by International Graphics Inc. of Little Rock be thrown out on the technicality.

Secretary of State Kelly Bryant has delayed awarding the four contracts. He awarded 27 other printing contracts Tuesday, bringing to 57 the number he has approved. Twelve contracts remain. The contracts are for various state agencies during the next two years.

Gov. Dale Bumpers asked Atty. Gen. Ray Thornton for an opinion on whether International Graphics' bids were defective and Thornton replied late Tuesday that the bids apparently were valid. Thornton said that unless there was a valid regula-

WHO'S HUNG UP ON SEX?

Dear Helen:

The "Homely Girl" who commented about the previous generation (us oldies) being hung up on the beauty queen syndrome-proms, dates and sex—had better stop and take a good look at our world today.

Now I'll admit we probably had more interest in proms and formal dating back in those days. But sex?

It seems to me that with all the emphasis on free and easy living, near-nudity, the "your place or mine?" philosophy, this new generation is more sex-minded than ever before in history.

How many girls worry about standards and morals any more? (The boys never did, as I remember.) The way they wear their clothes, talk, hitchhike, openly sashay up to boys, they make their invitations very clear.—M.S.

Dear M.:

"Homely Girl" said the younger generation is "no longer hung up on sex" and she's right. A "hang up" implies worry, indecision, obsession, secrecy. Today's youth doesn't consider sex that important. Sure, they indulge (what generation hasn't?), but for the "now crowd" it's a matter of personal choice. They don't feel compelled either way, and they don't condemn their peers, whichever way they choose. Nor do they try to hide their relationships.

You might be surprised to learn that some of the girls who appear most available, judging from an elder's view of clothes, "sashaying," talk—even communal weekend—etc. are the straightest—and the boys know it and don't push.

If you don't believe me, ask a teenager—or observe which group largely keeps the "adult" book stores and X-rated movies in business: The hung-up middle-agers!—H.

Dear Helen:

I applied at a local store for work. Because I was desperate, I filled out the boss's sex questionnaire the way I knew he wanted it. You see, it's all over town that he asks girls very personal questions in a supposedly psychological test and, if they indicate they're willing and eager, they're hired. Girls who don't go for extra or premarital sex get passed over. That's why there are usually job openings there.

Well, he hired me. I work in women's lingerie. So far (in two months) the boss has only stopped by once, and he hasn't asked me to his office yet. But I'm scared. What if he makes a pass? I absolutely have to have this job because my husband was laid off and his unemployment money is about used up. We have two small children.

Dear WBNW:

The lech (if he is one) probably won't bother you during Christmas rush—he needs willing bodies now more than willing bodies.

After the holidays? Why not tion establishing a requirement that signatures be on the general provisions sheet. International Graphics' bids should not be thrown out.

William D. Gaddy, administrator of the state Purchasing Division, and Bryant said they knew of no such written requirement for the signatures.

H. Maurice Mitchell, an attorney for International Graphics, said that if his client did not receive the contracts and they went to the next lowest bidders "a reasonable estimate of the increase in printing costs to the state of Arkansas would be in excess of $50,000."

Bryant still maintained that International Graphics' bids were incomplete.

"We've had that (the signing of the general provision sheets) for as long as I've been in this," he said. "They've been thrown out for at least the last 12 years."

The four contracts are for printing the annual report of the Arkansas Children's Colony, printing the Arkansas hunting and fishing regulations, printing blank forms, tickets and circulars of state agencies by the letterpress process, and printing the summer school bulletins and special bulletins of the University of Arkansas.

Bryant said Mitchell's estimate of $50,000 additional cost by taking the second lowest bidder was "way out of line."

U.S. Planes Dodge Enemy Missiles

SAIGON (AP) — American fighter-bombers dodged surface-to-air missiles, exchanged fire with an antiaircraft battery and attacked a radar station in a flareup of the air war along the border between North Vietnam and Laos, military spokesman reported today.

The U.S. Command said there were three incidents Tuesday about 25, 80 and 90 miles north of the demilitarized zone. There was no damage to U.S. aircraft, and results of the U.S. attacks were not known, a communique said.

The U.S. strikes raised to 87 the number of air attacks on North Vietnamese territory this year.

The U.S. Command gave this account of the three incidents:

1. Three Navy A7 jets were bombing the Ho Chi Minh trail on the Laotian side of the border 10 miles southwest of the Ban Karai pass when two 37-foot SAMs were fired at them from across the border. The pilots spotted the missiles and evaded them.

2. An Air Force RF4 photo plane checking on the supply buildup on the North Vietnamese side of the border 19 miles northeast of the Mu Gia pass was fired on by an antiaircraft gun. Two F4 fighter-bombers escorting the photo plane bombed the AA battery, but it was not known what damage they did.

3. Another Navy A7 bomber pilot on the Laotian side of the border seven miles southeast of the Mu Gia pass detected from his electronic equipment that a radar site nine miles north of the pass, on the North Vietnamese side of the border was tracking him preparatory to firing. The flier fired first but didn't know if his missile hit the radar.

It was the second time in four days that SAMs were fired on U.S. jets. As the United States steps up its air attacks on the Ho Chi Minh trail in an attempt to slow the North Vietnamese supply push south during the current dry season, the North Vietnamese are increasing their attacks to defend the trail.

Meanwhile, official sources disclosed that the South Vietnamese government is planning another big prisoner release in an effort to get Hanoi to free American prisoners.

The sources said both North Vietnamese and Viet Cong would be freed during Christmas, New Year's and the Tet celebration of lunar new year in mid-February.

The Saigon government will also announce cease-fires for the three holidays, the sources said. The Viet Cong already has declared three-day cease-fires for Christmas and New Year's and four days for Tet.

The number of prisoners to be freed has not yet been determined, the sources reported.

But the Saigon newspaper Xay Dung said the government is considering releasing about 3,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and granting amnesty to another 5,000 Viet Cong during the three holidays. This would be the biggest POW release of the war if carried out.

The United States is believed prodding the South Vietnamese government to initiate prisoner releases in hopes of getting North Vietnam to respond by freeing American POWs.

The state has contended that fraudulent invoices were made up by Farrior's and the county was actually charged for clothing purchased by Thomas at Schneider's.

The prosecution has presented records which they contend show Thomas bought 63 shirts, seven suits, 10 pairs of slacks, eight pairs of shoes, seven pairs of socks, six pairs of shorts, two hats, two ties, two raincoats, two sweaters and a top coat with county funds during a three-year period.
